

A Very Special Christmas Offer

THE LIVERY HALLS OF THE CITY OF LONDON

A landmark book celebrating the remarkable Livery Halls of the City of London, with specially commissioned imagery, and featuring in-depth entries on 40 of the existing Halls.

For some 800 years, Livery Companies have played a leading role in commercial activities and social and political life in the City of London. These trade associations, each representing a particular craft or profession, were originally responsible for controlling, for example, wages and working conditions. Their headquarters – the Livery Halls – evolved from large medieval town houses to become an identifiable building type. This beautiful book is the first major exploration of these architecturally significant buildings.

There is an excellent introduction by Anya Lucas ... Henry Russell's descriptions of the halls as they are today and Andreas von Einsiedel's impressive photographs are of the same quality

THE ART NEWSPAPER

A valuable and beautifully presented book on a surprisingly neglected subject ... Andreas von Einsiedel's views capture the companies' interiors and furnishings in great detail, in many cases for the first time in book form ... a worthy tribute to [the Livery Halls] extraordinary longevity

LONDON TOPOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY NEWSLETTER

A great addition to reference works on the architecture of the City of London
CONTEXT, JOURNAL OF THE INSTITUTE OF HISTORIC BUILDING CONSERVATION

This would make a wonderful and very welcome Christmas gift!

Order your copy of Livery Halls of the City of London at the Special Price of £35 (RRP £45)

This is a limited offer and available only for collection from Temple Bar.

Email clerk@architectscompany.org to order your copies for this special price and arrange collection before Christmas

MERRELL
LONDON • NEW YORK
merrellpublishers.com

Hardback with jacket, 280 pages, 450 illustrations and plans,
1 map, 30.5 x 25 cm ISBN 978-1-8589-4670-2